Social and Personal

The wedding of Miss Lydia Louise Harris to Mr. Wilfred L. Goodwyn was celebrated at 7 o'clock last evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Harris, of No. 836 West Grace Street, and was an event in which society was much interested.

House decorations were in palms, maldenhair ferns, white roses and pink carnations. The pariors and halls were canvased in white and the front parior, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jere Witherspoon, of Grace Street Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. J. Y. Downman, of All Saints' Episcopal Church, and the Rev. C. R. Kuyk, of Parton Heights, was altogether in green and white, the altar having a background of palms, and mantels being banked with ferns and flowers.

Little ribbon-holders in pretty white costumes were Miss Marie Mosby Wilkinson and Master John Nash Irving. They formed an aisle of white ribbons bunched with white carnations, through which the bridal party passed.

The bride came in with her father and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Travis Epes, of Notloway county. She wore a lovely gown of gray crepe de chine, trimmed in white lace and chiffon, a picture hat, and carried a shower boquet of Bride roses.

She was attended by her maids of honor, Miss India Davis Goodwyn, of Nottoway, the slster of the groom, and by her sister, Miss Mildred Shelton Harris. The maids were handsomely attired in white organdy, with white tuile sashes. Their flowers were white carnations. Mr. James E. Anderson and Mr. T. J. Harris were the groomsmen.

James E. Anderson and Mr. T. J. Harris were the groomsmen.
The corremony was witnessed by the families and friends of the contracting parties, Miss Mary Anderson, of Amelia; Miss Mary Davis, of Goochland; Judge C. F. Goodwyn, of Nottoway, and Mr. Wirt Goodwyn, of Sunderland, Mass., the father and brother of the groom, being among those present.
Mr. and Mrs. Goodwyn left last evening for a Northern tour. They will return to make their home at No. S26 West Grace Street, Mr. Goodwyn being the Southern representative of the Richmond Paper Manufacturing Company.

Invitations have been received in Richmons from Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Jones for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

The anniversary will fall on January 1d, 1941, and the celebration will be held from 8 to 11 o'clock of that day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, No. 1304 West Lexington Street, opposite Franklin Square, Baltimore, Md.

Miss Martha Gresham Pollard and Mr. John Gibson, Jr., were quietly married in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson Pollard, of No. 916 West Grace Street, at 6:380 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was witnessed only by the families of the bride and groom.

Mulford-Clark.

Mulford—Clark.

A marriage of decided interest took place in Trinity Episcopal Church, South Boston, Va., yesterday, when Miss Phocebe Howison Clark, of "Banister Lodge," and Mr. William Wheeler Mulford, of New York, were married, the hour of the ceremony being 1:30 P. M. and the celebrant the Rev. Campbell D. Mayers.

The bride, wearing white crepe de chine and lace over a liberty silk and chiffon foundation and carrying Bride roses, came in with ner father.

Her mad of honor, Miss Ethel Clark, who immediately preceded her, had on white silk mull, and a white lace hat. Her becquet was of La France roses.

Miss Lina and Miss Elise Clark, the two bridesmalds, were in Nile green silk mull, and picture hats, their flowers being white carnations.

The church was beautifully decorated in Christmas greenery by the bride's friends. The groom awaited the coming of the bride at the altar with his best man, Mr. Roland J. Mulford, his brother. Other attendants were Mr. Charles Bruce, of Richmond, and Mr. George Winlock, of Boston, Mass.

The bride and groom left after their marriage for St. Louis, Mo., their future home.

Miss Belle Ruth Vaughan will be mar-ried to-day to Mr. Frank Powers Jones in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Vaughan, of No. 210 North Thirty-second Street.

The parlor of the Rev. Father H. J. McKeetrey, of St. Patrick's Church, was the scene last night of the marriage of Miss Hattle. Lee Jordan, the daughter of Mr. Gidwell Jordan, of Fulton, to Mr. John Dally, electrician of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. and Mrs. Dally will have their future residence on Fulton Street.

Daughters Tea.

A pretty entertainment of vesterday afternoon was given by Miss Lucy Claire Atkinson to the Old Dominion Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of which she is regent.

A talk given by the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Etrange after the business meeting, on the doctor's recent visit to Palestine, proved most enjoyable, as did the social tea which followed.

Dining room decorations carried out the Revolutionary colors in red, white and blue, the table being daintily set in antique silver and cut glass.

The table center-piece was a mirror reflecting a liberty bell within a circle of glit stars, depending from red, white and blue ribbons. Mrs. Sidney J. Dudley, of Hampton, Va., was assisted in serving by Miss Dew, Miss Anne Wise Mayo, Miss Ethel Walker Atkinson and Miss Annie Reddy. Mrs. Christian Clark poured coffee and Miss Meade Burwell was at the tea table.

We have been waiting for the chance to put out a beautiful poem, but the surrounding circumstances have been against us.

Notwithstanding this condition of things we have made up our mind to do it, anyway, and here goes:

The snow, the snow, the beautiful snow: Down where the wurzburgers fitfully

Down where the wurzburgers fittully grow.

Down where we gather the daisies so nice,

Now covered up with slush and wet ice.

Down where we stand on the corner and freeze,

With a cold in our head, and cough and

Down where its nice and warm, by the stove,
To nibble and chew the coffee and clove;
Where buckwheats and sausages taste so good,
And a follow feels that he would if he could.

Oh, the snow, the beautiful snow: What makes your coming so backward and slow?

Oh, for the time we can wear our boots, When a fellow feels chilly way down to When the barefooted boys may ride in "Dragging over the gravels!" sireamed Mrs. Flamingo Longanecker; and let me tell you that when Mrs. Flamingo Longanecker screamed it was real screaming. "Dragging over the gravels—how did you carry the child, wretched being?"

"Why, I j—j—just carried him like I used to carry my own bables," whimpered Pussy Gray, putting the corner of her apron to her eyes. "I took him by his neck, and it was so long and twisty-wisty that most of him dragged on the ground. And please, ma'am, I don't like nussin' young flamingoes. And please, ma'am, I want to quit."

"Quit you will." shouted Mrs. Flamingo, "and without a character!" as she flew upstairs to put arnica, vaseline and poultrices on poor baby flamingo's logs. But the dear flamingo lady never thought for a moment that if she had stayed at home from her club to look after her long-legged baby these sad happenings would never have been.

From these journeys he returns with little stories that are now quaint, now strange, now humorous. A story of the latter sort concerns a visit to Tennessee. "I arrived one night at a mountaineer's cabin," said the professor "and asked for shelter for the night, The good people were very hospitable, They gave me a comfortable bed and an excellent meal. "While I was eating my meal my lost watened me harrowly, to see that I nad everything I wanted. He kept ordering his wife to fill my glass, to bring momore bread, and so forth. "Can you read?" said the teacher,

"Yes, ma'am," replied Johnnie.

"Well, now we shall see," said the teacher,

"You read over after me. Be sure to read just what I do."

So she began slowly, running her finger along under the words.

"Did-you-ever—see—a—donkey?"

And Johnnie, in the same deliberate, sing-song voice, running his finger along the page, replied:

"No—ma'am—I—never—did."

GOT TOGETHER, THE POLICE BILL

Pending Measure to be Withdrawn and Another to be Framed.

At a meeting of the Committee on Leg-Islation, held yesterday, the differences between the City Council and the Police Board were adjusted, and an agreement was effected, whereby the disputed bill, now pending in the Legislature, will be abandoned, and a new one, with the endorsement of both bodies, will be offered in the next General Assembly, that meets dorsement of both bodies, will be offered in the next General Assembly, that meets in January.

The session of the committee was an unusually interesting one, and was highly satisfactory to both sides. The board explained that it meant no discourtesy to the Council, and the Council, through its committee, accepted the explanation, and agreed to stand by the board in its contention for the absolute control by the Police Commissioners of the entire police department. The results of the meeting are summed up in the following brief, but comprehensive, official statement, given out yesterday by a member of the board. The bill amending the city charter, prepared and introduced in the Legislature by the Police Board, and sow before the Senate Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, will not be pressed by the board. The matter was considered at a meeting of the Council Committee on Legislation yesterday, and Mr. Ainsile, of the Police Board, appeared before the committee to explain the provisions of the bill. The committee was assured that the board meant no discourtesy to the Council by its action, and the misunderstanding between the members of the Council and the board was cleared away. The committee wished an amendment, which was perfectly acceptable to the board, but was of the opinion that an entirely new bill should be drawn, which would place the antire control and management of the police department in the hands of the board, and slive it even greater powers than the present bill, and a resolution was unanimously adopted requesting the Police Board to do so. Mr. Ainsile will present such a bill to the committee in a few days.
